Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Tuesday 20 Jul 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Warm and sultry for many; thunderstorms across eastern England decaying.

This Evening and Tonight:
Heavy showers and thunderstorms over east and southeast England slowly fading, then dry and warm overnight with clear periods, but low cloud and hill fog affecting northeast England and eastern Scotland.

Wednesday:
Another dry and sunny day for many areas, once low cloud clears back to the coast in the northeast. The high temperatures may trigger isolated heavy showers in the afternoon.

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Dry and sunny for most Thursday and Friday, remaining hot in the west. Cloudier conditions and heavy showers spreading across southern UK Friday evening and Saturday, fine in the north.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.